SUMMARY

Graduate Full Stack Developer with an insatiable hunger for growth, I undertook a diverse range of projects, from creating static websites applications to developing complex Full Stack applications. Looking to take my career to the next level, and eager to apply my talents to an organisation that shares my values and vision. In my spare time, you can find me exploring the latest trends in technology, attending industry conferences, and contributing to open-source projects. These activities allow me to stay at the forefront of the field and sharpen my skills as a developer.
